Hits At Regimentation And Calls For Return To American System

Landon Declares Issue is American System of Government Versus New Deal Policies and Plans for Future.

REGULATIONS

Says Next Step Will be to Tell a Man What Kind of Work He May Do.

Aboard Landon special en route to Oklahoma City, Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon carried eastward today across New Mexico and a corner of Texas a campaign contention that "regimentation of the individual and curb of his liberties underlie every one of the New Deal's plans."

Heading for Oklahoma City where an address tomorrow morning is expected to touch on government "relief and waste," the Republican presidential candidate paused last night at Phoenix, Ariz., to say: "I take my stand on the American system of government against all comers."

Ahead-today lay only railroad operation stops with a possibility the Kansan might, or might not appear. A sore throat which bothered Landon yesterday was reported cured.

At Phoenix, crowd estimated at 3,500 by Mayor John H. Udall cheered as Landon concluded and bent over the railing of his private car to grasp the outstretched hands of scores.

"The fundamental issue as I see it in this campaign," Landon asserted, "is whether we shall maintain our American system of government or whether we shall surrender it for another and very different system."

"This is a question above party, a question that challenges our most serious consideration not as Democrats or Republicans, but as Americans."

"Through the Constitution, our forefathers gave the government they established certain rights and duties. But they specifically kept for themselves and their children the right to live their own lives, to speak freely, to write freely and to worship according to the dictates of conscience."

People Have Choice.

"Today," Landon continued, "the people of this country have a choice between the American system they have always known and an opposite system. This will determine whether they and their children will remain a free people, capable of self-government, or be dominated by an all-powerful central authority."

"I am not questioning the humanitarian intentions of the present administration. But I do wish to point out the threatening character of the means the administration uses to carry out its intentions."

"There can be no question as to the road down which we are being led."

Asserting "this threatened change in our form of government is not remote," the nominee declared the New Dealers "have allowed nothing to deter them in their plan to make over our political, social and economic life."

Addressing his remarks to the southwest's cattlemen, Landon said: "We see in the present administration of the grazing act another example of federal bureaucracy run wild."

"If by one means or another rights to regulate can be set up, such regulations will not stop with telling farmers how many bushels of potatoes they can harvest."

"If this power of regulation shall be fully established it will then be argued there is equal authority to tell a man to cease farming entirely and start digging ditches, or to order women to cease wearing silk and rayon hose and to begin wearing cotton ones. Or to order all working men to work twice their present hours at half their present pay."

Changes Possible.

In conclusion, Landon said: "Let me repeat what I said when I accepted the nomination of my party for the presidency. I would not have you believe that I think the Constitution is above change."

"The people have the right by the means they have prescribed to amend the Constitution as they see fit. I do believe, however, that the underlying principles of that charter of our freedom must be maintained if we are to continue to go forward under the protection of our American form of government."

During the long ride from Los Angeles Landon worked on an address on foreign affairs scheduled for delivery in Indianapolis Saturday night. Conferring with him were William R. Castle, former undersecretary of state in President Hoover's cabinet, and J. Rosen Clark, former ambassador to Mexico, who introduced Landon at Phoenix.

Treasury to Assign Account Numbers to 26,000,000 in U. S.

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The treasury is gradually perfecting arrangements to collect taxes under the old age pension section of the Social Security Act; but the assignment numbers to 26,000,000 workers covered by the law has yet to begin.

The government printing office worked today on the proposed forms under which one per cent of the affected employees' wages and one per cent of the employer's payroll will be collected for 1937. Treasury officials said the regulations and forms probably would not be approved or made public until late November or December.

Collection most likely will be on a monthly basis, it was said, with the assessment for January falling due the last day of February. Hundreds of inquiries have come in already from the 3,500,000 employers estimated to be affected.

Collectors in the 64 internal revenue districts are busy listing the employers. The names to date total about 2,000,000. A call to register voluntarily probably will be made.

Already spread over four Washington buildings and renting space in Baltimore for clerical work, the security board has prevailed upon the postoffice department to undertake the stupendous workers' registration task. Board officials said that with this help they can avoid building an unnecessarily large machine.

The board's staff of several thousand is expected to be greatly enlarged, however, when the wage records and account numbers for pension purposes are finally brought together.

Postal attachés said no actual plan for the job has been drawn. Indications were that a conference of inspectors might be called in the next few weeks. It will be up to them to supervise the registration of individual employees, drafting of an office record on the basis of each employee's application, and the return to the worker of a numbered certificate of his account.

The board expects to cooperate with the postoffice until transfer of the tax collections into its jurisdiction; but the tax collections are really a treasury responsibility. Under the law, the tax on both employees and employers will remain at one per cent until 1933, run from them until 1942 at one and a half percent, and gradually rise to a maximum of three per cent for 1934 and thereafter.

The revenue so gained will consist of an "old-age reserve account" in the treasury. From this the pensions will be disbursed under certain conditions to people who reach 65 after 1942. Some lump sum payments will go to persons who reach 65 before that date.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The position of the treasury on October 20—Receipts, $1,728,312,36; expenditures, $11,158,278,64; balance, $1,914,536,024,40; customs receipts for the month, $25,237,657,72. Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1 to July 1, was shown today in a report by Frank A. Johnson, Senior Statistician of the Department of Corrections. In that period 250 incidents were recorded and 70 of them remain unsolved. In the first six months of last year the total was 282. Among cases numbered 122, Mr. Johnson read a letter from Mr. T. D. Teller expressing the regret of the new commissioners of corrections and the reason for it and obtain his resignation before temporary or permanent appointments are made.

Johnson Takes Charge

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Edward P. Maloney, Commissioner of Corrections, took complete charge today of all appointments to the staffs of New York State Penal Institutions in a general order issued to Wardens and Superintendents. The order, reported in "Corrections," the department's official bulletin, requires wardens and superintendents to void the commission of any vacancy and the reason for it and obtain his resignation before temporary or permanent appointments are made.

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Treasury officials said today they would ask Congress to create a new and powerful enforcement agency by welding three existing investigative units into one.

The secret service, customs agency service and the enforcement division of the alcohol tax unit would be merged into a new "treasury agents' service."

This service, officials said, would make possible a unified drive against counterfeiters, smugglers and bootleggers.

They asserted that agents could move more swiftly against law violators under a single, compact agency because delay in requesting cooperation or exchanging information among the three existing organizations would be eliminated.

In addition, they said, present duplication of effort and division of authority would be wiped out. This, it was said, would be especially effective in fighting crime syndicates which operate in a number of cities.

Overlap Now

Also, under the present setup, a single criminal transaction may involve enforcement work by all three agencies. If, for instance, a smuggler brought fraudulently stamped liquor into the country, he would be violating customs, alcohol tax and counterfeiting laws.

The new agency would be headed by a director receiving a $10,000 salary. Under him would be supervisors for specific phases of enforcement work.

A total of 2,890 agents now employed in the separate services would be shifted to the new organization.

The narcotics bureau would remain as an independent agency, because many of its activities have to do with supervision of legitimate traffic in narcotics rather than with law enforcement. Provision would be made, however, to coordinate its enforcement work with that of the new service.

Secretary Morgenthau already has moved to knit the three units more closely together, naming Harold N. Graves as a special assistant to coordinate their activities.

Severe Punishment

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Severe punishment, promptly administered, was recommended today by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as "good medicine" for youthful extortionists.

Hoover, who previously has advocated "better understanding" between police departments and young boys, said that extortion "is much too serious a crime to be passed over lightly."

"One of the greatest menaces in the current national crime picture," he said in an interview, "is the youthful extortionist. He should be prosecuted and made an example of, not be treated as a prankster."

Receipts of an extortion note can cause almost as much grief and distress as an kidnapping. Families are agonized by extortion letters for they cannot be sure the threats won't be carried out, nor can they tell what form of tragedy is impending.

"Youthful extortionists should not be condoned," he continued feelingly. "They should be punished promptly and severely like any other criminal not left off with a parental lecture or easy discipline."

Postal attachés said no actual plan for the job has been drawn. Indications were that a conference of inspectors might be called in the next few weeks. It will be up to them to supervise the registration of individual employees, drafting of an office record on the basis of each employee's application, and the return to the worker of a numbered certificate of his account.

The board expects to cooperate with the postoffice until transfer of the tax collections into its jurisdiction; but the tax collections are really a treasury responsibility. Following the remarks of the retiring president Mr. Loughra called upon the chairman of the nominating committee to make his report on nominations for the coming year but due to Mr. Brink's modesty he said Fred Osterholzer would pitch in and read the report. ## CAPITAL MOVED

Madrid Dispatches Say Reds Move Government to Barcelona; Azana Establishes Offices.

With the insurgent troops of General Jose Varela, at Navalcarnero, 18 miles southwest of Madrid, Oct. 22 (AP)—The insurgent big push on Madrid gained relentless momentum today.

Entrenched in this key city, torn from government defenders by shells, bombs, and the steel hands of fierce Moorish troops. General Varela's shock troops pulled themselves together to thrust a Fascist spearhead down the last few miles to the capital.

From the south, the little general's Toledo column began pushing its left flank up in a straight line through Illescas and Navalcarnero.

To the north, Lt. Col. Rada's artillery blasted historic El Escorial to further straighten the Fascist line all along the western front.

The army's tactical secrecy prevented any leak concerning the next big objective.

But, it was plain the fork which Dictator-Designate Francisco Franco intends to stab into the capital has several prongs.

This morning, trucks laden with pontoons were rushed up to replace a bridge over the Guadarrama river just 16 miles southwest of Madrid, blasted by retreating government troops.

The explosion at the bridge sent black smoke and debris high into the air with a roar which drowned out the crash of shells at Navalcarnero yesterday.

Platoons of insurgents marched to "clean up" territory between two main highways to the capital before the final push is ordered.

Inside Navalcarnero, other insurgents labored to consolidate the newly-won positions in expectation of a government counter-attack.

The Fascist Legionnaire and Moorish troops of General Jose Varela marched into Navalcarnero last night in the wake of a battering artillery and aerial barrage on Socialist defenders.

Insurgent commanders paid the government militiamen a compliment for their stubborn resistance, saying they retired only when threatened with a flanking movement.

Russia Is Accused

By The Associated Press

London, Oct. 22—Germany has accused Soviet Russia of shipping arms to the Spanish government disguised as food, an informed source said today.

This source disclosed the German note to the non-intervention committee transmitted to London prior to tomorrow's meeting of the group contained seven points.

Two Categories

These are in two general categories:

A sweeping denial of all charges that Germany has shipped arms to the Spanish insurgents.

Several specific dates on which the Germans allege Russian arms have been transported to Spanish government ports in the guise of food shipments sent by the Russian Communist party for the relief of destitute government supporters in Spain.

An Italian reply to Russian charges of neutrality breaches is expected a few days before the committee meets—at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

This, like Germany's note, will deny the Soviet accusations and make counter-charges. It is understood.

Portugal has not yet indicated when its reply to Russian charges that is a port of entry for Spanish Fascist arms may be expected.

A Russian spokesman, referring to the German note, insisted today the counter-charges were not supported by evidence.

With a Soviet bolt from the committee reeled in many quarters as foregone conclusion tomorrow, the spokesman would say only this: "It depends on the course the meeting takes."

In Princeton during the month of September there were two boys injured riding bicycles which collided with motor vehicles.

Chief Wood said today that there was no question but that some action must be taken to avoid injury or death

Hobbies

(By Henry P. Elshemey).

Clock Construction.

(C. A. Raschke.)

The hobby of the construction of furniture is not too common among people today, and even more rare is the person who spends his spare time in building grandfathers' clocks. Such a man is C. A. Raschke, retired letter carrier, of this city.

Mr. Raschke always has had a yen for collecting stray bits of this and that which others have deemed useless, especially old pieces of furniture discarded by their original owners. So for many years, the former letter carrier assembled odd bits of old wood, salvaging some from auctions and rubbish piles, and accepting other pieces of broken-down furniture offered to him, provided he got them out of the other's way.

Thus came the idea for the grandfather's clock.

About five years ago Mr. Raschke decided to build a replica of an old-fashioned grandfather's clock, and with pieces of black walnut taken from an old bed and bureau, he set to work, using only a saw, a chisel and a knife as his main implements. In six weeks of steady work he fashioned a beautiful clock, experimenting with various ideas in construction, such as using sandpaper wrapped around a food jar to get the correct angle for the molding which finished the base of the clock. He learned from the first effort that he had to visualize his project in order to use each bit of wood with as little waste as possible, and he made it a point not to use any new material.

After completing his first clock, he planned another from wood of an old black walnut bed that was over 70 years old and had been given to him to be gotten out of the original owner's way. The pillars on the front of the clock were fashioned by a chisel from the bed posts, with no turning being done on them. They were sanded thoroughly to give a smooth finish. Upon completion of the framework Mr. Raschke purchased a set of clock works which included Westminster chimes, an addition which gave his product a very pleasing character.

However, the clock built five years ago was not the first clock Mr. Raschke built. While still a boy working in a local cigar factory, the former mailman, using a jack-knife, produced mantel clock fashioned from 1,880 separate bits of cigar-box wood glued together in a sunburst effect with two-colored wood being employed. This work he entered in the State Fair at Syracuse and won first prize and high praise for his excellent accomplishment. Even the dial of this clock was made of separate bits of wood.

Clocks are not the only pieces of furniture Mr. Raschke has built. In past years he has constructed three small desks, some chairs and other odd pieces, making them all by reclaiming old wood and once in a while using cigar boxes. All his work has been done with a minimum of tools, such as a chisel, a knife and sandpaper. He has endeavored to make each piece of material count for its full value, working on the assumption that it was not necessary to waste any wood, if the work to be done was thought carefully out before hand. Then, too, each finished product has taught Mr. Raschke little things which help greatly in future work, so that the wealth of knowledge coming from practical experience has not been cast aside, but rather has been employed in each succeeding piece of work.

At the present time, Mr. Raschke's home contains three grandfather's clocks of his own handwork, and also, other bits of decorations built in the following of his hobby. The effect of sitting in his living room when the hour arrives and hearing those three clocks boom forth the time of day, is most pleasing to any person who is a lover of objects linked to the past. Even though the clocks are not old in construction, the wood contained in them is old and the finished work creates the same effect as though the clocks were antiques. Mr. Raschke takes a great deal of pride in his hobby which not only affords him many hours of pleasant activity, but, also, is the means of creating something really worthwhile.

Politics at Random

WHILE in theory a Presidential campaign blankets 48 states, only a score or less usually feel the full force of the final pre-election drive for votes. It is so in 1936.

Firing may continue outside the crucial sector, for one reason or another. Presidential candidates may even make excursions into territory which they have not counted as their most promising. But all of that often is merely a part of the old military game of trying to confuse the enemy.

When it comes down to the real, underground work of getting out the vote, which many believe controls elections regardless of the activities of the candidates, the situation is different. Each party's high command sets aside certain states as safe, and puts in its best licks in those additional states where the possibilities seem most plausible.

New York To Colorado

THIS year the disposition of the Democrats is to look on the South and the Far West as the first line of their electoral strength. Since the Maine election, the Republicans have reckoned all of the New England states as theirs. These claims are disputed, in each instance, but the inevitable logic of the situation still indicates that the belt of contested states stretching from New York to Colorado will be the focus of the cumulative engagement of the campaign.

Within this section are the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, Idaho and Colorado.

Together these 20 states have 284 electoral votes, 18 more than the 266 needed to elect. If Mr. Roosevelt can carry the South and the Far West, he still will need some of these states to win. If Mr. Landon can carry New England, he still will need most of these states to win.

That is the simplest way in which the situation can be stated.

Democratic predictions of victory are based on a hope that at least two or three of the largest of the crucial states, or several of the smaller, will go Democratic; while Republican claims of an electoral college majority presupposes a Republican sweep through virtually the entire disputed area.

In fact, on the Republican side

National Chairman Hamilton has said

as much, in substance. He has predicated that Mr. Landon will win by carrying every state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, and 10 or 12 west of the Mississippi. A glance at the map will show what a solid sweep that would mean.

The policy of the Democratic manager is to claim everything, but to do it with a smile. Meantime they keep pegging away on the New York-Carolina front.

Manches Play Part

WHEN why does Mr. Landon go to California, and why does Mr. Roosevelt swing through New England?

There might be many answers. Sometimes a candidate yields to the plies of deeply enthused local leaders that if he only will come into their state, a strong opposition will melt away. He wants to escape the remorse which might overtake him if he disregarded such advice, and was beaten.

Sometimes he sees a psychological advantage in striking where the other fellow thinks himself strongest.

Sometimes he has obligations to party nominees for state or local office which he feels compelled to discharge.

And sometimes some of these hunches turn out to be bonanzas.

Hoover took some Democratic states he didn't count on in 1928, and Roosevelt cut more deeply into Republican territory than seemed possible in 1932. In these times, it's not an easy to tell.

Auto Accident Case in Court

Another action for damages arising out of an automobile accident was taken up for trial in supreme court Wednesday afternoon. Samuel Finkelstein of Ellenville brings an action as guardian of his son, Edward Finkelstein, and also individually, to recover for medical bills, etc., against Robert Daubner and Judson Hoornbeek. Hyman Walker with A. J. Cook appears for the plaintiffs and Grant & Clark appear for Daubner and H. H. Flemming appears for Mr. Hoornbeek.

The complaint alleges that in August of 1934 Mr. Daubner had taken the Finkelstein children to a nearby lake on a fishing expedition and that he was driving home that afternoon near Brigg Street, a small hamlet west of Ellenville, the car he was operating was struck by a car operated by Judson Hoornbeek and the car overturned and the Finkelstein boy was badly injured. The plaintiffs bring their action against Mr. Hoornbeek and also the driver of the Studebaker, Daubner.

It is the contention of the plaintiff that as the Daubner car was proceeding toward Ellenville the Hoornbeek car was proceeding westerly and that the Hoornbeek car came down the road, which had recently been repaired and still had soft shoulders, it was swaying from side to side.

Plaintiffs alleged that Mr. Hoornbeek was operating the car under the influence of liquor. This is denied by his defendant, Hoornbeek, who claims to have just driven from Kingston. The plaintiffs allege that when Daubner saw the Hoornbeek car coming toward him and taking up most of the road as it swayed from side to side he blew his horn on his car but proceeded on instead of stopping and that when the Hoornbeek car was close he swung to his left to pass the Hoornbeek car but at that instant the other car was swung back toward its right and it collided with the Daubner car near the right rear.

Plaintiffs seek to have the jury determine if one or whether both of the defendants are responsible for the accident through lack of proper operation of their car.

Daubner contends that he was faced with an emergency when he saw the Hoornbeek car coming toward him and he sought by turning to the left to avoid an accident and possible injury to the children in his charge. Hoornbeek denies that he was swerving from side to side and that he was operating the car under the influence of liquor, and claims that had Daubner kept on his own side of the road there would have been no accident.

The Finkelstein boy suffered concussion of the brain, broken bone in his foot and other permanent injuries which have caused him to become very nervous and his health.

Roosevelt Stumps Connecticut Today

Aboard Roosevelt train en route to Hartford, Conn., Oct. 22 (P). President Roosevelt swung his flying 32-hour campaign of southern New England into Connecticut today after telling a Massachusetts audience the New Deal had cut taxes for the "average American" and the choice this election, as in the past, lay between "Democracy" and "special privilege" in taxation.

Carrying memories of Bay State crowds that surpassed in number all others in his reelection campaign travels, the chief executive headed by special train for Hartford for early morning flood control conferences, a brief talk on the Capitol steps, and another long auto tour through Connecticut towns before heading from Stamford back to Washington for the week-end.

In his half-hour national broadcast speech in Worcester's jammed auditorium last night, he spoke of much "misinformation" and "propaganda" about administration taxes and asserted:

"The seeds of fear cannot bear fruit in the polling booth."

Were Not Fighting but Dancing on Walk

Alberta White and Her Husband, Clarence, Plead Not Guilty to Street Fighting—Hearing Friday—Other Police Court Cases.

"We were not fighting, we were just dancing together on the sidewalk, my wife and I never fight," said Clarence White, a negro of 36 Broadway, when arraigned before Judge Culoton in police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct in staging a street fight on East Strand shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

Mr. White explained that he and his wife had been attending a dance at the Cotton Club, and were on their way home. They enjoy dancing, he said, and were simply amusing themselves by dancing along the sidewalk when the cops stopped them.

"How do you plead to the charge then?" asked Judge Culoton.

"We plead not guilty to fighting," said husband and wife.

Judge Culoton adjourned the hearing to Friday morning so that the officers who made the arrest could be in court, and fixed bail at $25 each.

Roy Smith, a negro of 32 Gage street, arrested on a charge of recklessness driving, had his hearing adjourned until later.

Michael Monks of 3 Cedar street, who appeared in police court yesterday morning under the name of

Frank Monks, again faced Judge Culoton this morning on a similar charge of disorderly conduct. Yesterday Monk had agreed to take the train for New York city, but he told the judge that his watch was either too fast or too slow for he missed the train.

In order that he would not miss the train today the judge arranged with Sergeant Phinney to have Monk kept at police headquarters until train time and then placed aboard the train for the big city.

Peter Dugar of 69 St. James street, cashed his pay check yesterday morning and last night was picked up on a charge of public intoxication on West Strand. Dugar had fallen and inflicted a deep gash in his forehead which was treated at the Kingston Hospital. He told Judge Culoton that someone must have robbed him for all that was left of his pay check was $3 and some loose change. Judge Culoton imposed a fine of $3.

Rudy Hurberg, 57, of New York, arrested for vagrancy, was given an hour to get out of town.

National Disgrace
Carter Glass, Democratic senator from Virginia, said: "The New Deal, taken all in all, is not only a mistake, it is a disgrace to the nation."

THE HUNTING SEASON

Four dead, over a dozen injured, was the toll of the first few days following the opening of the hunting season for small game in New York state. Charges from accidentally discharged shotguns accounted for most of the casualties.

The early reports of accidents through carelessness should impress hunters that great care should be taken when in the woods. Particular attention should also be paid to the carrying of guns as many accidents result from the amateurish handling of weapons. "Look Before You Shoot" could also be opportunely emphasized. A local young man is in the Kingston Hospital for treatment for gunshot wounds received when his companion saw a squirrel in a tree, aimed and fired. As he pulled the trigger he was horrified to see his companion standing in range. The victim was struck in the face over one eye and in the leg.

This was the first hunting accident to be reported in the vicinity of Kingston this fall.

Following this open season for small game in the Catskills which includes woodcock, pheasants, rabbits, grey squirrel and partridge, the deer season will open in the Catskills on November 1. Opening of the deer season brings a great many hunters here from within and out of the state, and it is hoped that all hunters will acquaint themselves with the necessary safety measures in order to reduce the high casualty toll.

PAYOUT DEDUCTIONS.

Salary deductions under the so-called security act of the Roosevelt administration will become effective January 1, 1937. All employers will then be required under this law to deduct one per cent from employees' pay which will be sent to Washington.

The deduction from employees' pay, which is referred to as an income tax, from which no exemption is allowable, increases to 1 1/4 per cent, then 2 per cent and finally 3 per cent.

Salary deductions are made on pay up to $2,000 a year, or $57.69 per week.

Employees exempted from the tax and benefits include farm workers, domestic servants, casual labor, members of the crew of a ship, federal, state and municipal employees and employees of educational, religious or eleemosynary institutions.

Old-age benefits under the law, however, cannot be paid until you reach 65 years of age, provided you then quit your job and in no case before 1942.

Before the end of 1937 you will have to fill out a card to identify yourself and the government at Washington will assign you a worker's number. Thereafter and as long as you live you will be known by the number wherever you are employed—that's equivalent to a license tag.

The employer is required to pay a like amount to the government.

Employers, in addition, will be required to pay the federal government a payroll tax for unemployment insurance, the benefits of which, however, will not become effective in a state until the legislature makes provision for it.

Abraham Epstein, executive secretary of the American Association for Social Security, points out that young working men and women are forced to pay premiums for their old age annuities which are about 40 per cent higher than any private insurance company would require for the same retirement benefits. If you are only 25 years old and your pay is but $20 per week until you are 65 years of age, your pay will be taxed as follows:

20 cents a week or $10.40 a year in 1937-1939.

30 cents a week or $15.60 a year in 1940-1942.

40 cents a week or $20.80 a year in 1943-1945.

50 cents a week or $26.00 a year in 1946-1948.

60 cents a week or $31.20 a year after 1948.

RESTORE POLICY OF PLENTY

No matter how much official explaining is done or how many apologies are made for things that have gone wrong, the record confirms the truth that no man or bureau of men is wise enough to plan, regiment and dictate the policies and practices of the American farm from Washington.

When we had abundance of the most precious forms of wealth possible to create, we made little of the bountiful hand of Providence. We prized only commercial profits, and with 12,000,000 people hungry and cold, destroyed the good food that would feed them and the fibre that would clothe them. We destroyed brooding pigs and cattle, and stopped the production of crops to cause and maintain a scarcity of foods and clothing. We destroyed our foreign markets for farm products, and then to bolster up foreign trade, opened the doors of our markets to foreign farm products. Our customs house records show the results. Cattle and meat, wheat and corn, eggs and milk, butter and cheese from the farms of foreign nations are flowing into our market to compete with and replace the products of our home farms.

The past can be charged to ignorance and bad judgment. But we are certainly entitled to an assurance that the error is admitted and that the policy of the proponents of scarcity has been changed to a return of the policy of plenty.

SOLD OUT

Cruel facts and cold statistics are all on Governor Landon's side in the declaration he has repeatedly made that reciprocal trade pacts, as engineered by the present administration, are not in the interest of the American people. Speaking at Minneapolis recently, Mr. Landon ventured the opinion that by these agreements the farmers of the United States have been "sold down the river". This is a picturesque way of expressing it but, so far as a considerable part of the agricultural population is concerned, it states only the exact truth.

The original purpose of the reciprocal agreements—a purpose which

Governor Landon takes special care to approve—was wholly laudable. It was to enable the United States to sell to foreign countries more of its surplus products and to buy in return such goods as were either impossible or difficult of manufacture here. This course promised an arrangement of mutual benefit. But when the time came for an actual definition of terms, the United States assumed its customary role of giving away more than it received and in consequence soon found itself in the position of having the balance of trade run heavily against it. Thus in some 18 months, according to the government's own figures, this country brought from foreign nations

$50,000,000 more of goods than it sold to them. That is the price we have so far paid for the privilege of being "a good neighbor".

"Heel" of Italy

A thousand years ago, Apulia, that ancient province popularly thought of as the "heel" of Italy, was a main highway of travel to the east. Merchants and crusaders passed through and many settled there and built themselves Norman strongholds or great churches.

These relics of another land and another age have magnificently withstood the ravages of time.

Some Fish Live Long
Carp are usually long-lived, but the pike is still more of a veteran. One, confined to a fish pond, lived 267 years. Salmon occasionally become centenarians, and goldfish have been known to live in captivity for over 30 years. The average life of an eel is 80 years. Herrings live about four years and trout for between 10 and 12 years.

Before the end of 1937 you will have to fill out a card to identify

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS. At least the excitement of the last few hours has rung off. Silvery Dan, Lee, Hammon, Ruth, Eddie, and Louise, in league with Ambrose, Louisa, and Lazarus, vicious gang, but Ruth, trying to help Ference find Louise, got involved in bad with the police. Ference, although suspected of a murder he did not commit, now has arranged with Ruth, Ference to administer drugged elixir to the members of the notorious Golden Carpet Club—for a reason he does not explain to Ruth.

"This is how it happened," went on Mahony. "I heard, right by accident, that there was likely to be a plan to kidnap you at Albert Hall that night. I decided to interfere. I saw you kidnapped, and got you away from the kidnappers, and took you home."

"Your uncle let me into the house, and I carried you into his study. He led me in. While I was putting you down on the sofa, with my back to the door, a man hidden behind the door stabbed your uncle in the back and ran out of the house. I tried to do what I could for your uncle, but he was dead."

"Then someone rang the front door bell. I went to the window and saw a policeman outside. I decided that I'd better get away quickly, and I got away."

"And who was the . . . the man you say you saw kill my uncle?" asked Elsa in a half whisper.

"I only just glimpsed his back going through the doorway," answered Mahony. "I didn't see his face at all."

"So glad you could come," said Elsa.

"How did you find out that the attempt to kidnap me was going to be made?" she asked.

"I'm so glad you could come," she said. "I was afraid you might be too busy. You'd like a cocktail, wouldn't you?"

Before dinner, and during dinner, they chatted on ordinary topics, and never once did she refer to the murder, or the events which followed the murder. With all the skill of a consummate actress playing a difficult part faultlessly, she set herself out to please him and make him like her and trust her.

Mahony was no mug. But it did not even occur to him that her change of attitude might be mere pretense. Since he knew himself to be innocent of her uncle's murder, it did not strike him as unnatural that she should have come to believe in his innocence.

Elsa, an actress conscious of the reactions of her audience, was aware that Mahony was responding to her skillful pretense. That pleased her, and in a way, displeased her. Every now and then she felt that it was rather hateful to be pretending like this, making up to a man with the idea of luring him on to his own destruction.

"After I got away from here, I met one of the men who'd been responsible for the attempt to kidnap you. I remembered reading in a paper that Miss Fraser was missing from home, and guessed that the same gang had kidnapped her. I made the man I met tell me where they'd taken her."

A slight smile touched Mahony's lips.

"I'm afraid I treated him rather roughly," he went on. "I got Miss Fraser away from them, and took her home. I didn't tell her my name, or anything about the attempt to kidnap you. Next morning, when she stuck up for me to the police, it didn't occur to her that I might have been here before I rescued her. Even now she doesn't know that I was here that night."

"Why did she tell that story about staying with a friend in the country?" asked Elsa.

She was frowning a little, as if puzzled. But she was no longer acting.

Mahony's story had gripped her attention. Almost against her will, she was beginning to think he might be telling the truth.

MEAT AND POTATOES

You are not hearing so much now about the diet in which meat should not be eaten with potatoes, based on the idea that starches—bread, potatoes, pastry—require an alkaline solution for digestion and that proteins—meat, eggs, and fish—and acid fruits require a natural acid solution.

"The advocates of this diet," according to Dr. Clarence W. Lieb, in Hygeia, "overlook the fact that present day biochemists have shown that starch and sugar—both carbohydrates (starches)—can be digested in a neutral medium and that proteins are digested in both the acid stomach and the varying alkaline reactions of the small intestine."

If physicians were asked to name the six leading or outstanding research workers in North America on food and digestion, in health and disease, there are three names which would be on practically every list—Dr. Martin Reinhuss, Philadelphia, Dr. E. V. McCollum, Baltimore, and Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Mayo Clinic. It was only natural therefore that in his article on "The Compatible Eating" Fad, Dr. Lieb should quote these high authorities.

Dr. Reinhuss did research work on this point for eight years, among well people, and for over a year on "sick" people with diseases from angina pectoris to a slight head cold. He says, "There is no evidence in literature or in our investigations to lead us to believe that proteins and carbohydrates are incompatible (do not agree) in the stomach. A fact that has apparently been overlooked by those holding the carbohydrates-alkaline theory is that no carbohydrates are eaten that are not followed by a direct acid response on the part of the stomach. More than 400 chemical analyses of the digestive processes demonstrate more than words can express the absolute negligence of the statement that proteins and carbohydrates are incompatible in the stomach."

Dr. McCollum states, "There is no basis for eating proteins and carbohydrates separately as has been lately acclaimed."

Dr. Alvarez states, "I often meet patients who have been trying to cure themselves by not eating proteins and starches together. It would seem as if only an ignorant person would take any stock in this theory because anyone who knows anything about metabolism and diet knows that when one eats meat alone, one is partaking of material half of which acts as a carbohydrate in the body."

Thus there is no reason why households and households should be upset trying to serve proteins and carbohydrates separately. On the other hand if eating carbohydrates and proteins separately seems to suit the ideas and even the stomach of any individual there is no reason why he shouldn't do it. It certainly can do no harm."

And Friends Said: "What Good Pictures!"
He said: "A lovely subject—Ah! your picture will be rare! I swelled with pride; and raised my hand to fix one wayward hair. Inspired by flattery, I posed and smiled my sweetest smile. He focused from all angles known and beamed on me the while. Dolled up in fluffy ruffled clothes; I felt just like a queen; And I could hardly wait until my pictures could be seen. But when I saw them, I cried out, "Why, this should be unlawful! How did you make me look like that, I think they're simply awful."

LYLA MYERS.

Teacher—Why did a Babylonian king have hanging gardens?

Pupil—Probably because his neighbor kept chickens.

There are two sides to every question, and most politicians take both.

Customer—This seal coat is very fine, but will it stand rain?

Merchant—Listen, lady. Did you ever see a seal carry an umbrella?

Remorse is merely memory that has begun to ferment.

He—If I had known that tunnel was so long I would have kissed you. She—Gosh, wasn't that you?

Too much money gets a fellow into more trouble than not enough, but it's a lot more fun.

Daughter—May I go to a wedding, father?

Father—Must you go?
Daughter—I suppose so. I'm the bride.

The man who marries with money to burn usually finds his match.

He—Pardon me, dear, but your stockings seem rather wrinkled.

She—You brute! I have no stockings on.

Times are almost sure to keep on improving, so our next President will be a great man whoever he is.

He—Will you marry me, honey?
She—Trial, companionate, or flight-to-a-finish?

Another way to save a lot of time would be to hang all telephones too high to reach from a chair.

She—Archie, isn't Niagara wonderful? I could just stand and look at it forever.

He—But wouldn't it be rather trying to go through life with a cat-a-crack in one's eye.

An electronic "eye" has been invented for seeing things in the dark. But many people are still using an ordinary electric light bulb for the same purpose.

She—Someone was telling me that we are to have a new concrete stadium next fall.

He—Yes, the alumnus have decided to use their heads.

Now is the time when one must keep his chin up—both of them, if you're built that way.

Mrs. G.—I thought you and Grace weren't speaking.

Mrs. C.—Oh, yes, we are now. I wanted to find out what Eisele told her about me.

We can't agree with the fellow who says put off until next week what you can do today. By that time there will be a higher tax on it, or maybe a law against it.

Prof.—What is the principal ingredient used in the manufacture of rouge?

Hi Marker—I am not sure, sir, but it tastes like honey.

ART OF DRINKING LOST IN HUSTLE SAYS CLUB CHIEF

Chicago, (AP)—Club life and the art of drinking have faded from the average American's knowledge because he is in too much of a hurry to get somewhere and do something, says Albert Auerstaeter, new manager of the exclusive Chicago club.

"Men join clubs to escape the routine of home," Auerstaeter declares, "or mingle with their social peers and enjoy service. The younger generation, however, does not even know how to order a drink."

"The idea most young men have of a party is to gulp down half a dozen cocktails and grab the hors d'oeuvres from the buffet. After the sixth cocktail they don't care what they eat."

It will be great when American homes and offices are all kept at a perfect uniform temperature and humidity the year round; but what will happen to us when we go outdoors?

"I'll stay at the wheel," Johnny says.
"I'll keep busy."
"And run you to circles until you get there."
He turns at the wheel—the ship turns to the right;
Puff has to bring on using all of his might.

"To develop the student's ability to view life from the standpoint of the spectator at a comedy, to perceive the comic elements in situations and in people without being upset by them, and above all, to recognize the comic elements in himself."

The school's catalogue lists the course as "Types of Humorous Literature."

Chicago, Oct. 22 (CP).—Terrified by a jury's decree of 19 years in prison for the murder of a crippled and aged widow, 15-year-old Roland Munroe, Jr., today pinned his hope of escaping that penalty upon the possibility of a new trial.

A jury decided in three hours last night that Roland was not insane as the defense contended, when he clubbed 65-year-old Mrs. Agnes Roffeis to death with her own cane and a tack hammer in a cheap robbery last August 29.

Roland, red-haired and effeminate, sat in smiling indifference until the sentence was read, when an expression of terror supplanted the smile.

"Is there any more chance?" he asked as guards led him to his cell at the county jail. His attorney assured him there was. The attorney had filed a new trial motion and Judge John Pratalski said he would hear arguments November 6.

In vain Hoffman had pleaded with the jury that Roland's womanish addiction to perfumes and his solicitude for the appearance of his long, bushy hair was indicative that he was insane when he made the wolfish attack upon Mrs. Roffeis, left her dead body with a wire twisted around the neck and stole away in blood-stained clothes with his loot, a box of trinkets valued at less than $10.

Sagging screen doors that drop away from the top of the frames and leave convenient cracks through which the flies and mosquitoes may enter can be brought back to their original contours by a wire fastened diagonally across the face with a small turnbuckle in the center.

SHOKAN

Mary Be Bishop

Shokan, Oct. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terhune, Jr., called on friends in the village Monday. The Terhunes, who are regular summer visitors to Shokan, had been on a trip to Niagara Falls and were on their way back to Fleetwood, Westchester county.

A supper will be held in the Reformed Church basement Friday evening, October 30, beginning at 5:30 o'clock. The affair is being sponsored by the Sunday school. Mrs. Daniel Sampson and Miss Margaret Windham are the kitchen and dining room committees, respectively.

Charles Dulaff, Boliceville sawmill operator, is getting out hemlock lumber for Chester Lyons' new house on Church hill. The house will be of two stories, with basement and attic. Much of the framework has been completed by Contractor Justus North.

Callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aitken Sunday were as follows: Theodore H. Boice of Bayonne, N. J., together with his daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Genet, and grandson, Ted; Mr. and Mrs. Wells of Bayonne, and Preston Schodfeld of Teaneck, N. J.

Not much shooting was heard in the woods around Shokan on the first two days of the open squirrel season. The gray squirrels probably are remaining far back against the mountain slopes, since there is a big crop of acorns and doubtless a few hickorynuts as well, making it unnecessary for these lively rodents to seek out the cornfields this season.

Mrs. Reynolds Bishop, a former Shokan resident, is reported as planning to operate again a tea room in the Lasher building, whence she removed from Lake Hill a short time ago.

Emil Brunell, photographer, has completed a second totem pole at his Chalet Indian grounds along the north boulevard.

The mystery of Louis Thell's lost cow remains unsolved. Tuesday, some one reported that a cow had been heard bawling in the woods back of Ashokan for two days, but Mr. Thell upon investigating this lead found that the bawling bovine was Charles Dubois' cow and that she was merely calling for her calf.

The Saturday night cow abduction sets a precedent here; even the old timers fail to recall a similar case and the affair naturally has furnished much food for conversation in the twin villages during the last three days.

Mrs. Alida Griffith of New Jersey is spending a few days at the home of her brother, Claude Rose, and family.

October 22, 1888, John Hill of Shokan sold to I. W. and Cecile Wentworth nearly 1,500 acres of the old Andrew Brodhead property in the Peekamoose sector of Denning. Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth later purchased the Kerr, Barnes and Ensign tracts from J. Q. A. Ward, bringing their holdings at the head of the Rondout Creek to 2,000 acres.

Members of the reservoir force are using their new trailer for hauling chlorine cylinders from the Ashokan yard of the Central Railroad to the screen chamber at the aerator park. The tanks, which are shipped here on flat cars, formerly were transported locally in trucks.

A fine spring in a corner of one of Daniel Sampson's fields has functioned normally all summer and fall, filling a one-inch pipe that conveys the water by gravity to the second floor of the Sampson farmhouse in the heights section. The fact that there is invariably more water in the east branch of the Butterbaugh than in the west branch, during extreme periods of drought, is attributed

Big Tea Party Features

Annual Prayer Festival
The world's biggest tea party is that which takes place at the annual Tibetan prayer festival.

A huge bronze cauldron is rigged up in the main square of Lhasa, capital of Tibet, and the tea is prepared.

It is made by churning up brick tea, soda, salt, and plenty of butter or old mutton fat. The older the butter the better!

The result of the mixing is a dark brown oily liquid, and Tibetans regard it as the greatest drink in existence. It is quite an ordinary thing for a man or woman to drink about 80 cups of it in a day, asserts a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

And the extraordinary thing is that it seems to do them good. Tibetans are endowed with almost incredible muscular strength and amazing powers of endurance.

Causes of Electrical Storms

Electrical storms begin on hot, still days. The heated earth warms the air next to it, which becomes charged with water vapor by evaporation. The absence of wind tends to keep this warm air from mixing with the cooler air above it. As a result a considerable amount of warm air accumulates next to the ground, although it has expanded with heat and is therefore lighter than the air above.

Meaning of Metayage

Metayage is the system of cultivating land for a share of its yield, carried out in France before the days of the revolution. The tenant was supplied with stock, seed and implements, receiving in return for his labor one-half of the produce.

This system was once common in England, and it is found in Italy and in certain districts of the United States.

Mummy of King Tut

The mummy of Tutankhamen was inclosed within three ornate coffins, placed one within the other, the innermost of solid gold, decorated with remarkable workmanship. The mummy was covered with objects of personal adornment of great value and worth on the face a mask of gold, golden sandals on the feet and golden tips on the toes and fingers.

largely to the Sampson spring's overflow.

Miss Gertrude Osterhoudt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osterhoudt of Brown Station, is attending school in Brooklyn this fall.

Robert Secor of Kingston visited his summer home in the village center Sunday.

Miss Helen Matland of Brooklyn is remaining at the family summer home until after election. Mrs. Thomas Matland returned to the city some time ago.

John Ingalls of Brooklyn is rustinating at the Ingalls' state road place.

There will be no school here Thursday and Friday on account of the teacher attending the conference in Troy.

Elmer Bedell, whose bungalow has been occupied by the Harold Grumme family for the past several months, is boarding with his cousin, Mrs. Aner Longyear.

Recently a flock of a hundred crows came soaring over Hogsback, headed due west towards the Wittenberg range. The last crow was fully a mile behind the vanguard. Whether these birds were bound is a matter for conjecture; if for the south they were evidently making for a detour via Delaware River route.

Ralph Buley, Alva Buley, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Krum of Ashokan motored to the Adirondacks and brought home as spoils of the chase a buck deer with six point antlers.

Barbara Tucceling returned to Rhinebeck Tuesday after a brief visit with relatives at the Tucceling farmhouse.

Frank Waters, Jr., of Kingston called on friends here Sunday. Mr. Waters, who at one time was extensively engaged in timbering operations here, was accompanied to Shokan by Charles and Scott Marabella, two bright lads of the Rondout section.

Election Hall.

The second annual Election Ball will be held at the West Shore Hotel Monday, November 3, starting at 9 o'clock. There will be an orchestra and special entertainment.

DOCTORS FIND ANEMIA ORIGINATES IN STOMACH

Minneapolis, Minn.—A new explanation for pernicious anemia is reported in the Journal of Medical Progress by Doctors Samuel Morrison and Raymond E. Gardner of the University of Maryland. They find its source in the lower part of the stomach, called the pylorus, and in the failure of that part of the stomach to manufacture a secretion which stimulates the manufacture of red blood cells.

At Presbyterian Synod in New York

New York, Oct. 21 (Special)—The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., of Rondout and Mrs. Andrew Lent and Mrs. Clarence Ratzeburg of Highland are delegates to the New York Presbyterian Synod in the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, this week. The Rev. Mr. Armstrong is serving as a committee chairman.

After a debate on the church's attitude toward freedom of speech and teachers' loyalty oaths, the Synod went on record in opposition to the oaths and in support of full freedom of expression for all, including advocates of dissenting political creeds.

The Synod adopted the principle of a plan to guarantee minimum salaries for ministers, but set no definite minimum and left further details to be worked out. The completed plan will be ready in the spring.

Rainier Volcano

Mount Rainier, rising to a height of 14,400 feet in the Cascade range to make it the highest peak in the continental United States, is the result of volcanic eruptions. It was discovered in 1793 by the navigator Vancouver, who disregarded the Indian name of Tacoma and named it after Admiral Rainier of the British navy. It was made part of Mt. Rainier National park by act of congress in 1899.

Tobacco Kills Rattlesnakes

There's another method of rattle and copperhead snakes besides beating them to death—a method discovered by the Ohio pioneers. While one man held the snake firmly with a forked stick another would pry open its mouth and drop therein a quid of chewing tobacco. Then, released, the snake would crawl about one or two lengths, suffocating and die.

Stone Ridge School News

An election was held Tuesday morning for editor and reporters of the Stone Ridge school news. The results were: Thelma Van Denmark as editor, Anna Traphagen as assistant editor, and Frances Barnhart and Eva Peters as the reporters.

Superintendent Roosa called on the Stone Ridge school one day last week.

The upper grades are working on a unit of New York state. The pupils are working out a very interesting bulletin board on the unit.

The entire school is very proud of the improvement on the walls. They are also grateful for the splendid new drinking fountains.

The Mothers' Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on October 23. Miss Roosa will discuss the topic "Your Child's School Needs You." A discussion of importance to parents will be an item on the program for each month. Each mother is requested to bring a coat hanger and at least a half yard of material. Mrs. Jack Osterhout will give instructions for making an article for each child which will be suitable for holding his hat, gloves, rubbers etc. All parents are urged to be present and others are cordially invited to attend.

The state nurse called on the school one day last week. The pupils are very fortunate in having a state nurse assigned to the county. Many schools throughout the state have been fortunate in having one for many years.

The children of the primary room have been interested in collecting seeds and studying how they are scattered. The collection has been mounted for the bulletin board.

The third grade is working on the unit, "How We Are Fed." They are working out an excellent activity on the unit.

The fourth grade is working on the unit, "The Hot Wet Regions".

Helen Van Denmark has contributed many things for the bulletin board. Already on the bulletin board are many things about New York state including posters on cities, places of historical interest in New York state, beautiful scenery in New York state, etc.

Friday afternoon during art period nice Halloween drawings were made

Annual Autumn St. Ursula's Party Held on Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock the annual St. Ursula's party, organized by the seniors, was held on the spacious lawns of the academy at Margrove.

This affair, which each autumn inaugurates the academy's social season and which is a source of great rivalry between succeeding senior classes, was a great success, and the present senior group is awaiting the report on the proceeds of the various games and booths to see whether they outgained the 1936 graduates. The proceeds are used to finance various intra-mural activities, such as basketball, etc.

First on the program was an excellent puppet show produced by the sixth grade and dramatized by the Misses Anne de la Vergne and Nancy Worlman. The play, "The Blue Rose", cleverly executed, was enacted in an excellent puppet theatre built by Charles de la Vergne, and was a source of great amusement to everyone, teachers, upper classmen and primary pupils.

"Ask Nancy", a comedy presented by the seniors, was received with much pleasure, and put into the world of drama. Miss Miriam Maroon as Nancy, Miss Catharine O'Brien, as mother, while Miss Anna May Weishaupl, Miss Kathleen Cullen and Miss Martina Gugger took the parts of Beattle, Mary and Ann, respectively, daughters. Miss Rita McDermott was Cousin Judy.

Following the comedy sketch there was a general evodus to the booths and attractions, all of carnival nature, which, together with the games, gave the entire school an afternoon which none will forget soon.

DRY BROOK

Dry Brook, Oct. 22—Winton Ruff of Margaretville was a caller in this place on Wednesday.

- SO IS A CHECK-UP ON YOUR TELEPHONE SET-UP

• SOME PEOPLE have perfect eyesight. But many others find upon an examination that their eyes need the help of the right glasses!

It's the same with your telephone equipment. What served you admirably some years ago may not be best for your needs today.

A telephone check-up may show where you and your employees can save time and trouble in answering or making calls—how you can reduce the number of outside calls you make —how you can build up business with customers who prefer to buy by telephone.

It's easy to find out for sure—just telephone the Business Office and say you want your telephone lay-out checked up. Remember—no obligation.

A Check-up Helped these Firms

THE OWNER of a dry goods establishment with his office in the rear had to walk from one end of the store to the other to give any orders. By installing an inexpensive telephone plan he can now telephone over the inside line from his office to another telephone in the front of the store, and in this way save time and steps. In addition, he can hold incoming calls while getting information over the inside line.

A SMALL TAXI COMPANY OWNER discovered that although his outgoing calls were few, they often interfered with calls for taxis. To save this loss he put in a second line for outgoing calls and any overflow incoming calls as a result, the first line was left clear for incoming calls from customers.

AN INSURANCE AGENT felt he was losing business because customers couldn't reach him after hours. An extension telephone from his office line was put in his home. One night he received an order which paid the charge for the extension for five months.

Woodstock One of 40 Towns to Vote About Local Option

Albany, Oct. 22 (Special)—Besides the town of Woodstock, Ulster county, there will be 40 other towns throughout New York state which will vote on the "dry" question on Election Day this November, according to an article appearing today in the ABC News, official bulletin of the New York State Liquor Authority.

Mrs. John S. Sheppard, a member of the authority and editor of the bulletin, points out that this year, local option is an issue in considerably fewer places than last year, when 80 communities voted on the dry question. Of the 80 communities which voted on this matter at last year's general election, 36 up-state towns won local option, and went dry upon the September 30 expiration of liquor licenses.

With respect to the town of Woodstock, Mrs. Sheppard, in her article, says:

"In Woodstock, famous artists' colony and Catskill Mountain resort, the filing of a local option petition has aroused much discussion. Noisy night clubs are said to have disturbed the residents to such an extent that the petition was circulated. Woodstock liquor dealers have expressed their willingness to cooperate and favor putting out of business the places which prove to be a nuisance."

"One dealer said, 'If Woodstock is voted dry, the town will be given a black eye as a summer resort. All the evils of bootlegging and prostitution will return, and the only ones who will be happy will be the illicit apple-jack distillers back in the mountains.'"

Comeau Opens Offices Here

Martin F. Comeau, who was formerly associated with the law firm of Wiswall, Walton, Wood and MacAffer with offices in the Kingston Trust Company building on Fair street, has opened an office of his own at 261 Fair street in the Schuyler C. Schultz building opposite the uptown postoffice. Mr. Comeau will continue the general practice of the law from his new office.

Mr. Comeau, who was admitted to the bar last spring brings to the car a wealth of experience gained in other fields than the law. He was a naval officer before, during and after the World War and was at one time attached to the American embassy at Constantinople, Turkey, as an aid on the staff of Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, U. S. N., United States High Commissioner to Turkey.

Until he took up the study of law at Boston University in 1931, Mr. Comeau was associated with the Employers Liability Assurance Corporation, Ltd., one of the largest liability insurance companies in the United States, and was in turn Safety Engineer, Surety Underwriter, co-ordinator and manager of the Company's Washington, D. C., office.

Mr. Comeau married the former Marion G. Eames of Woodstock and they now reside in that village.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief.

Many sufferers relieve anguish, headache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be great kidney disease. The kidneys are the chief organs taking the load of filtering and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 8 pounds of waste.

Frequent or steady passing with sweating and burning, you may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of passing backaches, pains, lameness, loss of appetite, constipation, diarrhea, coughing, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully for over 40 years. They help to relax and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies so seldom give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause? Do you know the cause of piles in internal?

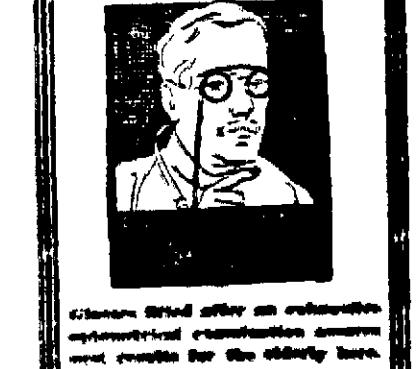

That there is congestion of blood in the rectum, bowel, veins, artery, the parts involved?

Do you know that there is a harmful internal remedy for bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. J. S. Leonhardt known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel, drives out the thick impure blood, and restores the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that Medical Drug Stores and all good druggists advise piles sufferers to get a bottle of HEM-ROID. Take it daily, take it as directed—it is completely satisfied with results—your money back. Ad.

ALIENS OWN THREE BILLION U. S. STOCKS

Foreign Investments Here Total $5,035,000,000.

Washington.—Foreign investors own more than 3,000 million dollars in American stocks and bonds and have total investments in the United States aggregating $5,035 million dollars, the Commerce department reported.

British investors lead all others with 27.3 per cent of the total, while Canada is second with 20 per cent, and Holland third with 15.6 per cent.

The department said:

"Together with foreign owned bank balances and other short term funds representing liabilities of the United States to foreign creditors, which amount to roughly 1,200 million dollars, the total long and short term foreign investments in the United States at the end of 1935 were approximately 6,235 million dollars."

The report showed that more than 1,000 million dollars of foreign money was invested in the United States in 1935, mostly going into stocks and bonds.

Besides stocks and bonds, foreign investors have more than 1,000 million dollars invested in American trusts, foreign insurance companies operating in this country, and in farm and urban real estate.

The department estimated that value of the stocks held by foreign investors increased 37 per cent during 1935.

Dividend and interest payments to foreigners amounted to 145 million dollars in 1935. About $3 million was earned off common and preferred stocks.

Sign Language is Taught to Apes in London Zoo

London.—There is a schoolroom in the London zoo where lessons are conducted in absolute silence and only two pupils attend. They are Mick and George, three-year-old chimpanzees, who are being taught to "talk" in the sign language used by primitive man before he mastered the art of speech.

Their curriculum has been drawn up by Sir Richard Paget, authority on phonetics, and their "schoolmaster" is G. Stonor of the zoo staff.

"I've been teaching them for about six weeks," Stonor declares. "The only sign they react to immediately is one which tells them on which side of the cage their food is coming."

"The signs I am making to them at present concern only food. I hold up a finger and pretend to peel it, as if it were a banana. I do this several times, and then produce a banana."

"The sign for an apple is almost the same, except that I draw it downward from my mouth, for monkeys bite an apple with their lower teeth."

"So far the chimps have watched everything with great interest, but I only teach them for 30 to 40 minutes a day, as they quickly get bored."

Game Is Now Classified as Agricultural Crop

Spartanburg, S. C.—Game in the Piedmont section has been classed as an agricultural crop by William C. Kelley, biologist of the soil conservation service.

"Creatures of wild life," he said, "depend on vegetation for food and shelter, and any operation which restores this natural form of protection and maintenance, is beneficial to wild life and at the same time helps minimize erosion. Soil conservation activities should present exceptional opportunities for promoting wild life welfare. Essentially it constitutes the matter of proper land use and sound farm management."

"Such usage of land obviates the cultivation of steep erodible slopes and provides for the stabilization of gullies by the planting of trees, vines, shrubs and grasses."

Farmers Head List of Speculators in Grain

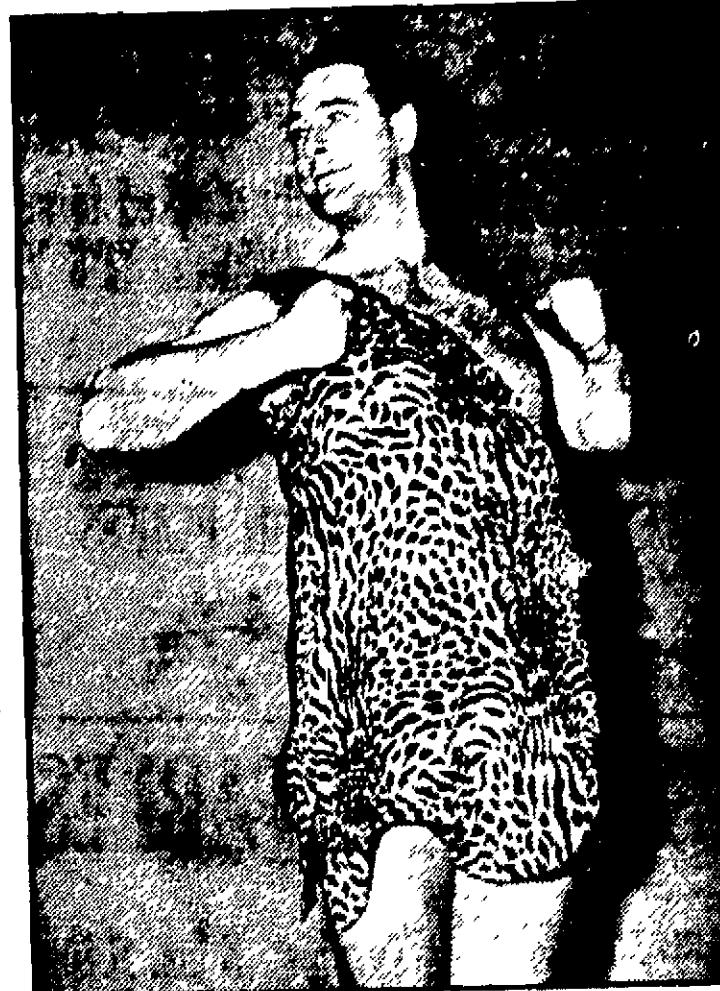

Washington.—More farmers and housewives gamble in grain than any other group, the Department of Agriculture has learned in a survey. In one day the department counted 18,364 traders in wheat and corn on the Chicago Board of Trade. The list was led by 2,329 farmers and 1,301 housewives. More than 800 other occupations were represented.

On another day 30,000 speculators were counted. Farmers led again. The list included bankers and bankers, cooks and clergymen, hog buyers and hostesses, jewelers and jewelers, plasterers and pugilists, seamens and scientists, waitresses and watchmakers. There was one clam digger and another person said he "just fiddled around."

Girl, Twelve, Crack Shot Woodland, Calif.—Gloria Jacobs, twelve-year-old daughter of Capt. Henry R. Jacobs, is rapidly earning a record as the crack pistol shot of the state. In the latest competition here she won two gold medals with a score of 182 out of a possible 200 in the women's class and a score of 200 out of a possible 200 in the men's class.

ery, relish, cranberries, rolls, pie, coffee, tea, postum or milk. Ice cream on sale. Near Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Assistant District Attorney Thomas A. Laverty described today as "unquestionably a murder and suicide."

The shooting of Harry Crossman, 53, and Mrs. Sara Belding, 47.

Crossman died last night after neighbors, attracted by two shots, found him critically wounded in the cellar of the Belding home just outside Poughkeepsie. Beside a small coal bin nearby was Mrs. Belding's body, a single wound in the head.

Both had been shot with a .35 cal-ber pistol.

Friends of Mrs. Belding said that Crossman after boarding at her home several years, left about a month ago.

The American Girl AND THE KING OF ENGLAND

FROM HER NEW HOME . . . In London's fashionable Cumberland terrace onto which Mrs. Wallis Simpson moved while her husband announced she had filed suit for a divorce which he would not defend . . .

THEY COULD HOOF IT . . . not that they will, but Wally and the king, who enjoyed tramps like this during their recent cruise, could easily walk . . .

TO HIS PALACE . . . for it's only a mile away. "Davie," as Mrs. Simpson calls him, left his beloved St. James for the immense Buckingham palace recently after his mother, Queen Mary, removed to Marlborough House, in keeping with tradition for non-reigning sovereigns.

Wally's A Pal Of H. R. M. Today

Last of a Series.

By CHARLES NORMAN

New York (AP)—Perhaps the most envied woman in London today is the American-born Mrs. Ernest Simpson, friend and companion of Edward VIII.

As Prince of Wales he was said to have waited two hours in a Blarritz beauty parlor while her hair was a-drying. That was enough to set her apart.

Her wit and charm and her aristocratic southern lineage—the blood of Maryland Warfields, Virginia Monagues—is in her veins—brought her to the fore in the ultra-smart circles of the English capital.

Those who know Wallis Warfield Simpson even slightly are not surprised that her company is "preferred" by King Edward. Far from being a Yankee at his court, she is a southern belle, with a petite figure and jet-black hair, and a vivacious personality that makes it natural for her to address Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David as "Davie."

Bugs For Divorce.

They met while the then prince was much in the company of the former Thelma Morgan, then Lady Furness, twin sister of Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt. Mrs. Simpson used to accompany them—as friend and "chaperone"—on gay West End parties.

Now Mrs. Simpson is again following in Thelma's footsteps in suing her well-to-do commercial broker husband for divorce on charges of misconduct—the only grounds for divorce in England. Lady Furness divorced Viscount Furness in January, 1923.

The Simpsons were married in London on July 21, 1928—a second marriage for both.

Edward and the former belle from Baltimore are nearly of an age—he is 32, she 40—and they liked each other from the start. He loves to dance; she is an accomplished dancer. At her Bryanston Court home, he found relaxation and good company over a cup of tea poured by a charming woman entirely at her ease in his presence.

Once, when some of his subjects were standing embarrassedly about, Edward exclaimed: "Oh, for heaven's sake, sit down!"

At first he sent her flowers. Soon court circulars announcing dinner guests at York house or St. James's palace often ended: "Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson."

Climax A Climax.

The climax came this summer when the palatial yacht Naiad was loaded with provisions, including champagne from the royal cellar, for Edward's vacation cruise in the Mediterranean and Adriatic. A select circle of friends accompanied him: among them was Mrs. Simpson.

Eyebrows went up, tongues wagged. Harassed British editors, seeking to make use of pictures of the royal party which were flooding newspapers, observed the conventions (with a bow to Mrs. Grundy) by identifying only the males. But people kept asking each other the name of the attractive woman who was constantly at Edward's side.

Wherever the king and Mrs. Simpson appeared ashore, at golf links, country clubs, informal parties, it was observed that his tie or boutonniere matched her costume. In Vienna, after a round of calls, the king found it necessary to consult with Professor Heinrich Neumann, noted ear specialist. Mrs. Simpson visited the doctor first, put the specialist at his ease to make the interview easier for his majesty.

Buckingham Hostess?

For six weeks the tongues of empire wagged; finally the $1,390,000 yacht bearing the Duke of Lancaster (Edward's incognito) and his party returned to English waters. In the group that accompanied Edward to his Scottish castle at Balmoral was Mrs. Simpson. She is now in London, in a new home in Cumberland Terrace, in fashionable Regents Park, a mile from Buckingham palace. Her husband has taken up lodgings at his club.

"On October 1, in keeping with tradition, Queen Mary, no longer a reigning sovereign, removed to Marlborough house, leaving the question of a hostess at Buckingham palace up in the air.

Whether it will be Mrs. Simpson is a subject dear to the hearts of West End dowagers and the smart set generally.

Mattock.

Regular meeting of Plattekill Grange will be held at the Grange Hall on Saturday evening, October 24. Third and fourth degrees of the order will be conferred on the following class of candidates: Mr. and Mrs. Philip Selliger, Mr. and Mrs. George Chant, Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Thomas, Woodrow Crawford, Adrian Crawford, Harry Carlson.

A short literary program will be presented following the initiation.

Hosts and hostesses will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett, Mrs. Beulah Thompson, Paul Kittle, J. V. Nagle, Mr. and Mrs. George Sista, Albert Stahl, Charles Van Dusen, Milton Van Dusen, Eliza Shober.

A few years ago nearly all apples and pears were stored in barrels, though some baskets were used and a small amount of fruit was wrapped. A new type of crate, called the diff crate because it need not be returned, appeared in 1924 and has been "taking places" since that time.

One reason for the never failing popularity of sponge cake is its quaintness and adaptability. Sponge cake is the perfect accompaniment to a light dessert of stewed canned fruit and is a simple and easily served refreshment with a cup of tea, coffee, or cocoa when company drops in.

PRINCESS JULIANA WILL WED FOR LOVE

Finishes 7-Year Search for Satisfactory Husband.

The Hague. — Netherlands breathed sighs of relief recently when the engagement of their plump, twenty-seven year old Princess Julian, heir to the throne of The Netherlands, was announced. She is to marry the twenty-five year old Prince Bernard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld of Germany.

Never forgotten by her subjects was the whispered statement of their Julianas, richest princess in Europe, that she would never marry without being truly in love. In political circles, cafes, and by Dutch firesides the topic of a suitable alliance, satisfying to her marital ideals as well as royal convenience, has equalled the most heated political controversies in popularity.

The Hague rang with sounds of wild cheering crowds that lined the city streets to greet their beloved princess and her tall Prince "Beno" upon their return to the capital. Choirs sang, and the young couple were called repeatedly to appear on the balcony of the palace to acknowledge the rejoicing. Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany was given credit for the matchmaking; at which Queen Wilhelmina had failed.

A Seven Year Search.

Julianna's engagement culminates a seven year search by her mother, the iron willed Queen Wilhelmina, among European nobility for a husband satisfactory to her daughter. Rumors during this time implied the imminent engagement of the princess to no less than six suitors. Although she has obeyed all other wishes of her austere, proud mother, until now she has defied official matchmaking. None of the eligible bachelors of the English, German, or Swedish royalty has appealed to her.

They also may have reason to be frightened by marriage into the Dutch family. Life in Queen Wilhelmina's court has never been jolly and informal. The Prince-Consort has no authority whatsoever, but must endure the boredom of endless receptions and social functions. Nor have the eligibles forgotten that Queen Wilhelmina's husband, Prince-Consort Hendrik of Mecklenburg, spent much of his married life traveling.

Julianna believes that many of the dark hours in her mother's life were due to the fact that as a young princess she took no time to get acquainted with her prince-consort before their marriage. She married him because she needed a husband in the best interests of her country.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational Church will hold a clam chowder sale in the chapel of the church Friday, October 23. This sale will start at 4 p. m.

Queen May Abdicates.

Queen Wilhelmina, it is believed, will relinquish her throne to Julian after her marriage. The queen's ambition has been to bring about a marriage favorable to the throne.

Yet she has unwittingly made it difficult. Few suitors believe they could manage their prospective mother-in-law. Though she has made a great success of her forty-six year reign, she has lived from childhood in matters of statecraft, not in romantic intrigue. Queen Julian has been raised in the same strict manner in which her mother was tutored.

Romance has been greatly discouraged by the princess' enforced ultra-conservative life. Until she was of age, she wore no silk. Even now, she must buy her clothes from a shop chosen by Queen Wilhelmina for its conservative styles.

Republican Club to Fairlawn Stores Hear Women at Meeting Tonight

Tonight is Ladies' Night at the Republican Club meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, and the meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Parker Brinner, vice president of the club, and the orators will be three women speakers, one of them being Mrs. Rose Kingsley of this city.

The newly organized Harmonica Band of Kingston High School students will make its first public appearance at the meeting and will play several selections. Paul Zucca, well known musician, song leader and city legislator, will have charge of the entertainment of the evening, and will lead in singing the campaign songs.

This meeting is open to the general public, both men and women, and it is expected that there will be a record breaking attendance.

that he was unable to attend the affair.

Blackley Speaks

Norman Blackley, vice president of the Manufacturers Jobbers Association, parent organization of Fairlawn Stores, was then presented. Mr. Blackley, who has attended each of the banquets since Fairlawn was organized in this locality, spoke very briefly. He said he knew the members were engaged simply in the pursuit of pleasure for the evening, having left business behind for the time, and he did not intend to talk shop. He complimented the organization on its growth during the past two years in the Kingston district. This increase in membership indicated that Fairlawn Stores is in a healthy condition in the unit and he said that was true of all of the units east from Ohio where the Fairlawn organization operates. He promised the cooperation of the parent organization in solving any problems which might arise and expressed pleasure over being able to be present.

Prof. Reagan's Address

Prof. W. J. Reagan of Oakwood School, Poughkeepsie, spoke on "Problems of Today," and while his topic gave every indication of being a very "dry" subject it was quite the contrary. Dr. Reagan in his customary humorous manner kept the audience in a constant spirit of mirth through the injection of "experiences" which proved laugh provoking but still held a vast amount of food for thought. He pointed out that to live in the spirit of good fellowship was to live well and he invited the proprietors of Fairlawn Stores to meet and greet their customers in such a manner as to make for a better feeling of good will toward man. "If you want to get along have a sense of good will," said Dr. Reagan and he pointed out the soundness of that doctrine with numerous amusing incidents and stories.

At the conclusion of the talk the audience realized that while they had listened to an extremely "amusing" after dinner talk they had also been listening to a most enlightening and sound talk on how to meet the problems of today.

4 Vaudeville Acts

At the conclusion of the talk of Dr. Reagan there were four Broadway acts of vaudeville supplied by Alfred Skae of New York.

Miss Janis Thompson, who has appeared here before, gave two acrobatic dance numbers which were very well received and called for an encore.

The Great Dexter, Brazilian magician in tricks of magic, mystified the audience by his stunts. He caused birds to appear and disappear at will and when he borrowed a dollar from John DeGasperis, former president of the Fairlawn Stores, and then proceeded to break an egg in front of the former president and extract the same dollar bill the audience called for more. His advice to the grocers was to open their store mornings for a time and break open eggs and extract therefrom the dollar bill and then close up shop and enjoy the proceeds of the day.

John Uppman, a former Broadway favorite in "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time" and other musical shows presided over the entertainment as master of ceremonies and also gave two vocal selections.

Tuck and Trix, a sailor and a dog, put on a very clever act of contortions and acrobatics and displayed a very cleverly trained dog in various stunts.

At the conclusion of the entertainment dancing was enjoyed with Paul Zucca and his dance orchestra supplying the music. During the serving of the dinner Mr. Zucca also supplied the instrumental music and acted as song leader for the group.

There are now 55 Fairlawn stores in the Kingston Unit, covering seven counties adjacent to Kingston.

BACK TO VIRGINIA FOR TRIAL ON PAROLE FROM DANNEMORE

Thomas White, 24, a Charlottesville, Va., negro, was held at the county jail Wednesday night. White is on his way to Chesterfield county, Va., in charge of Chief of Police C. W. Smith, to answer to charges of burglary, the crimes having been committed several years ago.

Virginia authorities lost track of White in 1932, but later found that he was serving time in Dannemora, having been sent up for a term of from five to ten years, for a crime committed in New York city. He was taken into custody by the southern officer upon his release from Dannemora on parole.

Jailed As Tramp

Francis A. Welch, 34, of Pittsburgh, Mass., was arrested at Highland Wednesday on a charge of being a tramp. Justice Walter Seaman gave him five days in the county jail.

Some pessimist says children won't listen any more, when he could see for himself how they listen to the radio.

Rabbi Bloom Talks To Business Girls

There was an excellent attendance at the weekly Business Girls' Club supper held at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening. The business session was presided over by the president, Miss Edna Skinner, who welcomed all present and announced that on November 18, which will be "guest night," the ladies of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. will graciously repeat the play, "The Future Has a Past," for the Business Girls' supper when the members of the Newburgh Business Girls' Club of the Newburgh Y. W. will be the guests of honor. Next week Tuesday, there will be a friendship luncheon held at the Y. W. C. A. at 12:30 o'clock when reports on the membership campaign will be given.

The girls were also reminded of the bowling and swimming at the Y. M. C. A. for the girls, much interest in both sports being shown.

Miss Skinner then introduced Rabbi Bloom who said that he felt almost as though he belonged to the club after speaking twice last year and then being invited this year, showing the patience of the club. His talk was along lines very pertinent to this closely pre-election time, though in no sense a political speech.

He asked his hearers to think politics rather than propaganda, and while he was not advocating any candidate he did say to each one who could do so, "Do vote, for the right of franchise is a sacred privilege." The main question right now is "What motivates our voting?" Rabbi Bloom found elections distressing because of the hysteria shown by all candidates and the mud-slinging. After all the real question is "What do you want the United States to be like?" The right political thinking is based upon what we want the United States to be and that is the ideal we should strive for, he said. We should think for ourselves, and there should be more thinking. As for the candidates, the speaker would like to see them all go into a sort of monastic retreat before election so that their lives and motives might be scrutinized by those who were about to vote.

As for all the talk about "The flag" and "The Constitution," to keep that up without understanding what the flag and the Constitution stand for, to Rabbi Bloom, downright desecration. And the only adequate and complete definition that he could give of America whose symbols are the flag and the Constitution would be Lincoln's words, "A government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Everywhere in the world today sound thinking is needed. The only correct conception of Democracy would be a government where each one could think, speak and act according to his or her own conscience so long as those thoughts, words and acts would not interfere with the rights of others, and that Rabbi Bloom counted to be the essence of Americanism.

Said Rabbi Bloom, "Any mass of people anywhere in the world is guilty, what might be called the guilty good, not the bad, the vicious, but those who are the stupid prey of demagoguery. It is time to take the scales of prejudice off our eyes . . . There is not a human being who is not prejudiced and only the

Chris J. Flanagan Opens His Campaign

Chris J. Flanagan, Democratic candidate for district attorney, is favorably known to the voters in every part of Ulster County. During 21 years of law practice he has become acquainted with residents of every section of the county. His acquaintances admire him for his fighting qualities, his earnestness in pleading his clients' cause and his ability to try cases thoroughly, carefully and tactfully. Not even his most partisan foe, whether he be a lawyer or layman will deny that Mr. Flanagan is qualified to carry out the duties of district attorney with honor to himself and the office and to the satisfaction of the people of Ulster County.

Mr. Flanagan is a native of Ulster County, born in Kingston in January 1893, and he has ever been devoted to the interests of Ulster County. He was educated in Kingston's grade schools and was graduated from Ulster Academy in 1911. Upon his graduation he entered the law office of Brinsford & Canfield as a law clerk and in November, 1915, he was admitted to the New York State Bar.

In October, 1918, Mr. Flanagan opened a law office in Roseton and remained there until August, 1928, since which time he has maintained offices at 275 Fair street, Kingston, in the uptown section. In 1922 he formed a law partnership with William A. Karcher, with whom he still is associated in practice. Mr. Flanagan is married and the father of two boys, and resides with his family at 92 Orchard St., Kingston.

During his 21 years' practice Mr. Flanagan has been engaged extensively in trial work in the Supreme Court and County Court, as well as in the lower courts in various parts of the county. Also, Mr. Flanagan has represented his clients many times before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and also before the New York State Court of Appeals.

Mr. Flanagan, in 1932 and 1933, served with distinction as Corporation Counsel of the City of Kingston, and through his efforts the taxpayers of the city were saved substantial sums. At present, he is attorney to Ulster County for the New York State Tax Commission.

The above is a reprint of a news item which was published in the Kingston Daily Freeman on September 21, 1933.—Advertisement.

unprejudiced knows when he is prejudiced." The speaker urged the young women to make use of their minds politically and to vote intelligently and not emotionally, for only so can the ideals of Americanism be approximated.

Rabbi Bloom also reminded his hearers that glorious and brilliant as is the thought embodied in the constitution it was not intended to remain the same through all time. Anything unchangeable is dead and to make a government an idol or a fetish is to kill it. It is not true of any of our political parties that they believe that the constitution may not be amended, if necessary. The word "Constitution" is a challenge to our loyalties. We must, however, be brave enough, for the fineness, the best policies, the social life of our country to change our political, social and economic life if necessary, for the greatest good of the greatest number.

In closing Rabbi Bloom urged all to sit down before voting and carefully consider the pros and cons of the records and merits of each candidate. Or as we read in the Bible, "Come let us reason together, saith the Lord." Without reason and judgment we cannot reach the height to which we, as a nation should attain. And having so considered, the speaker further urged that his hearers be not diverted from their vision of what is right.

France Desires U. S. of Europe

Paris, Oct. 22 (AP)—France still wants a United States of Europe to prevent an open split between rival Fascist and Communist blocs Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos told the American Club today.

He cited the unification of the United States after the Civil War as an example which permitted hope that Europe's present difficulties could be overcome without strife.

Recalling Aristide Briand's ideal of a federation of European states, Delbos asserted:

"The government of which I am a member is trying to oil the wheels of the slightly obsolete mechanism of old Europe. We wish to prevent it from grinding or breaking up under too brutal a pressure. We wish to avoid a 'war of secession'."

"Phoney" Money
The term "phoney money" is a slang expression implying counterfeit or fake money. In the past, governments have debased the coinage by adulterating the silver and gold with base metals, or have issued large amounts of paper "flat" money, whose value is fixed by government decree alone, without a treasury reserve of gold, silver or other backing. Both are instances of "phoney" or unsound money.

Grand Jurors Banquet Nov. 12

the association each member will be allowed to bring with him a guest. The banquet will start at 7:30 and will be followed by speaking. It is expected that among those who will address the guests will be a prominent New York city jurist.

Al Smith Ready to Speak

Chicago, Oct. 22 (AP)—Former Gov. Al Smith of New York, who "took a walk" from the ranks of the Roosevelt supporters, was given a tumultuous reception in which boos vied with cheers as he arrived today for an address tonight in behalf of the Republican presidential nominee. Smith's talk tonight, his only one of the campaign in the middle west, was scheduled for 9:30 to 10:30 p. m. (EST) in the Civic Opera House. It was to be broadcast.

Turkey Supper

Espous, Oct. 22.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Espous Methodist Episcopal Church will serve a turkey supper on Wednesday, October 28, from 5:30 until all are served. The menu will be as follows: Roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, cabbage salad, cranberry sauce, rolls, pie, coffee or tea.

Growth of Oysters

It requires from four to six years to produce a good oyster, says a writer in Literary Digest. First the oyster clutch is planted every July. Little more than an old shell, this provides a rough surface for spawning. And a single female oyster can spawn from five to fifteen million eggs a year. On their first birthday the fittest youngsters are transplanted to an oyster farm. There, they grow up for a couple of years before being taken to still another home. At least another twelve months, often two years, pass before they are harvested. The oyster season, for fishermen and eaters alike, is from September to April. In the summer they are believed too light of weight to be tasty; therefore their year is only during the "r" months.

The Hound Family

The hound family includes so many varieties that it is often divided into two groups: the coursing dogs and the scenting dogs. The Beagle's specialty is rabbits. The large nostrils and deep loose lips serve to great advantage in picking up the trail and the breed is famous for its tenacity in holding to the line. Once catching the scent, pleasure and success are signaled by filling the air with bell-like barks. And this vocal music places him at the top as the best singer in canine circles.—Los Angeles Times.

Yellow Color in Vegetables

The yellow color of vegetables, such as in the carrot, is the color of the provitamin A, which, taken into the system, becomes transformed into vitamin A itself. There can be little doubt of the good effect of this vitamin on the human system. Its action, according to the best authorities, is to tone up the mucous membranes everywhere in the system, thus rendering and keeping them at the proper state of moisture.

"Lake of Seven Cities"

The Island of St. Michael termed "Lake of Seven Cities," comprises 267 square miles and is 830 miles west of Portugal. Once famous as the first stopping place for Spanish galleons on their return from the West Indies, the harbor city of Ponta Delgada of nearly 200,000 population presents a mixture of descendants from Phoenician and Carthaginian traders to an aristocracy descended from Portuguese settlers.

For the past 100 years the Jews, found in no other part of America, have arrived at San Juan Mission on St. Joseph's Day, March 19. And every year, inexplicably, they have flown off across the Pacific on St. John's Day, October 23.

FISH LIVE IN POOLS IN DEATH VALLEY

May Be Descendants of Those of Wetter Days.

New York.—Can you imagine any place less likely for fishing than the sun-scorched, furnace-baked region known as Death Valley, in lower California, where streams are unknown and the few pools are of bitter waters? When Mr. William V. Ward read a newspaper account of a certain spring in Death Valley wherein abounds a species of thriving fish, he smiled incredulously, thinking the reporter had been touched by the heat. Nevertheless, scientific interest was aroused and he fitted out an expedition to investigate, not without thought of exposing the reporter as a nature faker. He tells of his experience in "Natural History" published by the American Museum.

After describing his long journey across the Mojave desert to Saratoga Springs, about twenty miles from the lowest point on the North American continent, Mr. Ward says:

Fish in a Water Hole.

"Late in the afternoon the car came to a jolting stop beside a circle of weeds, surrounded by salt grass, which marked the location of a water-hole, and there were the fish! A thousand of them, playing and fighting in the depth of the pool.

"The pool was about twenty by thirty feet, and from two to three feet in depth. The bottom was covered with decayed vegetation except in several round, sandy spots from one to three feet in diameter through which the water bubbled from its underground source."

After his first excitement at finding the fish, Mr. Ward fell to wondering why they were there, knowing that there were no other fish in Death Valley and the nearest other water was miles away. "It seems most reasonable," he says, to presume, as do Stanford university ichthyologists who are studying the desert fish, "that the little minnows are descendants of those which once inhabited the area at a much earlier geological period when the desert had a moist and humid climate, and when the present arid basins were lakes and dry water courses full flowing rivers."

About Two Inches Long.

"They attain a maximum length of from two to two and one quarter inches. The males have slightly barred sides which become a brilliant iridescent blue when the light strikes them at the correct angle; but at other times they appear to be plain grey, with sometimes a reddish-brown tinge when one is looking down at them. The females lack most of the iridescent blue and are a little paler than their mates, while they have vertical bars on their sides which are much more prominent than those of the males.

"The rapidity of movement of the fishes in the water made it almost impossible to even try to scoop them up in the nets which had been brought for the purpose. However, the easiest way to catch them was soon discovered. An insect would be placed on the surface of the water, and its struggles quickly would attract a number of fishes. While they were busy attacking the insect, a net would be slipped quietly beneath them and they would be captured."

Daughter Buys Makeup

Box of Late John Gilbert Hollywood, Calif.—Treasured possessions and doodads of the late John Gilbert went on the auction block here and the most spirited bidder was the actor's daughter, Leatrice Joy Gilbert, eleven.

The daughter of the one-time screen lover's second wife obtained Gilbert's make-up box for $14.50. She also got a cameo bracelet for $18, a couple of books, two miniatures and a small etching for $6.30.

The auction, expected to last four days, was held in a vacant store. Gilbert, his friends said, rarely threw anything away and an amazing collection of miscellany was offered. There were about 2,000 items.

The least of a rare old Bible, with a market price of about $300, went for $190 to Clarence Brown, director of some of Gilbert's outstanding silent screen pictures.

A tan polo coat, little worn, for which Gilbert paid $220, was sold for $81. A suit which the actress' stepson explained cost $100 went for $22. A woman bought it.

The garment was found and around and come out below, and the music, it's more around than seven.

Miss Hagelweide's Funeral Held Today With Many Friends

The funeral of Miss Lillian B. Hagelweide, R. N., superintendent of nurses at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, was held this morning at 9 o'clock from the nurses' home and at 9:30 at St. Peter's Church where a high Mass of repose of her soul was offered by the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, assistant pastor, and also a vice president of the TB Hospital. Her relatives and many friends, together with the executive boards, the county officials, the full staff of nurses and maintenance group of the hospital were present at the services to pay their last respects to the memory of one who was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her.

The Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital, the Sisters of the West Park Orphanage, the Sisters of St. Peter's parish, the staff of doctors of the Benedictine Hospital, and also numerous physicians from the city and other parts of the county were also present.

The Rev. John P. Neumann, pastor of the church, the Rev. John Latcher, C. S. R., of Mt. St. Alphonsus and the Rev. Edward Hartly of St. Mary's Church, Saugerties, sat within the chancel during the Mass. At the offertory of the Mass William Raible sang "Ave Maria" and at the conclusion "Ave Maria."

The board of managers of the Tuberculosis Hospital, the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley, Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Dr. Joseph Jacobson, Dr. John Larikin and Samuel Bernstein led the honorary escort which also consisted of Charles J. Mullen, Adelbert Chambers, Louis E. Weber, John O'Connor, Lawrence Loerzel and Dr. J. Elsenberg, and a full squad of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion.

About 75 nurses dressed in uniform comprising units from the several hospitals were present in a body at the home and church and also accompanied the large funeral cortège to St. Mary's cemetery Saugerties, where interment was made in the family plot.

Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock a large delegation from Kingston Post, American Legion, visited the nurses' home and held ritualistic services for the departed comrade. The Rev. Father Herdegen also led the assembled relatives and friends in recitation of the Rosary for the repose of her soul. Beautiful floral pieces and Mass cards as spiritual bouquets were numerous, testifying to the high esteem in which Miss Hagelweide was held by relatives, friends and members of different organizations throughout the country.

The casket bearers were J. Edward Van Vleet, Fred F. Richter, William Buddenhagen, Edward Cline, John Leahy and Joseph Mulligan, all employees of the hospital.

The Rev. Father Herdegen, assisted by the Rev. Father Hartly, gave final absolution at the grave.

A volley was fired by the American Legion firing squad, composed of J. Hartley, J. McVille, R. Fredenburg, R. Arens, R. Gooding, A. Singer, R. Iseman and L. Elmendorf, under command of Sergeant William Jordan. Bugler Frank Sasse sounded taps.

It does seem as if those Roosevelt boys might hold a caucus, and agree on a policy, or else talk it over with mother, before committing dad on governmental matters.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. SANGER

New York, Oct. 21 (CP)—The stock market today devoted its buying ardor principally to specialties and permitted many of the leaders to drift.

Aircrafts were in front from the start. At the fast opening gains of fractions to 2 or more points predominated with a number of new 5-year tops being recorded.

The steels turned lower, however, and selling later developed in other sections of the list. With many past favorites moving erratically, the volume dwindled near the final hour. Early advances were reduced or cancelled in numerous instances.

Transfers were around 1,900,000 shares.

Reports Great Britain contemplated large purchases of military planes in America spurred the aviation sector. Earnings and dividends brought support to other issues. European war fears, at the same time, tended to chill market sentiment.

Among the best share performers were Douglas, Boeing, Curtiss-Wright, Sperry, United Aircraft, Wright Aeronautical, American Agricultural Chemical, Western Union, International Paper and Power Preferred, Coca-Cola, United Fruit, Crown Cork, Greyhound Corp. and Libby-Owens.

Closing Dinner In Scout Campaign Held at Y. M. C. A.

The closing dinner of the Boy Scout finance campaign took place last evening at the Y. M. C. A. with a very fine group of enthusiastic workers. The dinner opened with invocation by Dr. F. H. Denning, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, and after the fine dinner the group enjoyed singing led by W. A. Wright, Scout Executive.

Chairman E. A. Freer in calling the group to order following the dinner said that he wanted to express the appreciation of the Scout officials for the splendid work which the workers had been carrying on and although the desired goal had not been reached, other methods would have to be employed to reach it and he did feel that much had been accomplished in this effort for funds. Mr. Freer said that in checking through the cards it was found that some 400 cards were still in the hands of the workers and it was agreed that every effort should be made to clean every card and the workers agreed to do this before the campaign has actually closed.

The reports were given as follows:

	Fifth Report Tot. to Date
Hubs. Amt.	Subs. Amt.
Albany Ar. Rep. 15	$35.50
Elizondorf Pres.	53
Hondenout Pres.	22

	73
	$256.65
	76.00
	$800.75
	42658.35

Following the reports Chairman Freer presented George Matthews, captain of Team No. 1 of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, with a membership donated by the Y. M. C. A. for the man securing the largest amount during the campaign and then presented Mrs. A. D. Ronder, captain of Team No. 15 of mothers, with box of candy and flowers for the lady securing the largest amount during the campaign. Team No. 15 also had the high total for the day and was presented with the flag by George Matthews of Team No. 1, who won it previously.

Chairman Freer at the close said that as rapidly as the cards could be checked a group would then make every effort to not only canvass every card but also make sure that everybody interested would have an opportunity to contribute something to this needed work.

Eggs Tossed at Communist Meet

Grace Hutchins, Communist candidate for state controller, spoke at the corner of Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, Wednesday night, addressing approximately 100 people from her improvised rostrum bedecked with an American flag.

Speaking from the collapsible platform, designed for street meetings, the speaker asked all to "hear the cause of Communism" and rapped the process of government, taking special pains to deride Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican candidate for the presidency.

Two patrolmen, Harry Martin and Willard Hess, were on detail to see that there was no disorder, which there wasn't, except for an incident that occurred while Paul Crosbie, a leader of the American League Against War and Fascism, was making a speech.

Someone, who evidently made his way to the second balcony of the Y. M. C. A. from the outside of the building, or went upstairs and out of a window, unnoticed, dropped a bag of eggs with Crosbie as the intended target. The eggs missed the mark, however, and hit the brick pavement on Pine Grove avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Rourke of 29 Progress street, on their way to the basketball game at the Auditorium, were on the cross-walk when the yolk splash occurred and got part of the shower, necessitating a return home to change clothing.

Patrolman Harry Martin, near the spot where the bag struck, narrowly escaped being hit. Efforts on his part and by Y. M. C. A. officials were unavailing when they conducted a check-up to find who threw the eggs.

Poultry Calendar

Cornell offers to poultrymen a bulletin that's just like a calendar. You can do four things:
1. Afford a convenient place to keep daily egg-production and mortality records.
2. Set a standard or goal at which to aim each month.
3. Give hints for every month in the year.
4. Provide a way to conduct a county home egg-laying competition similar test.

The poultry calendar can be an aid to good flock management.

Office of Publication
State College of Agriculture
Ithaca, N. Y.

Please send me a copy of the bulletin, "Poultry Calendar," E-184, which the Kingston Daily Freeman has arranged to have sent to its readers who fill out this coupon very plainly, preferably in full:

WEST SHOKAN
• • • • •

West Shokan, Oct. 22.—The church had remodeling done, sponsored by the West Shokan Ladies Aid Society as an all day affair for Saturday, was completely ruined out. However the good ladies are hoping for better weather this week-end and will try it again on Saturday. Dinner will be served free to the workers and everyone is invited to come and lend a willing working hand.

The Olive Rebekahs are planning to hold their customary Halloween masquerade dance, which will take place on Friday evening, October 30, at the Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. Hall. There will be music galore for both round and square dancing, furnished by the ever popular Cottrell Ginger Snaps. Refreshments will be on sale.

The annual affair is usually an informal gathering for young and old, with amusements aplenty for those who may not care to trip the light fantastic. Admission price is extremely moderate. It's everybody's party and the general committee in charge assures all of a royal welcome and a right jolly Halloween celebration.

At the annual meeting of the Ulster County Rebekahs Past Nobles Grands Association, held Monday evening at Rayne Rebekah Lodge in Highland, Mrs. Viva Davis, past noble grand of Olive Rebekah Lodge, was one of a prominent class of candidates who received the degree conferred. Other representatives present from Olive Rebekah Lodge included Past District Deputy President Mildred Bush and Past Noble Grands Elsie Quick and Mabel Weidner. The gathering was attended by about 75.

A featured coming event in Ulster fraternal circles is the annual visitation in Kingston on Wednesday evening, November 4, when the State Rebekah Assembly President will be entertained and a turkey supper served at St. James M. E. Church.

The well known Biblical story of Christ and the tax collector, Lazarus, was the subject theme for a sermon presented by William Bender at the Sunday morning service held at the Baptist Community Church. Considering the chill disagreeable weather there was a goodly attendance. Services will be held again next Sunday at 10:30 a. m. All are most cordially welcome.

Roy Palen, ex-veteran, member of the Peekskill CCC, spent the weekend at his home in Brodhead.

Judge and Mrs. Henry Winchell were honored one day last week by having his former colleague on the Olive town board, Charles Giles, and wife, of Shokan, as luncheon guests at the Winchells' cozy home, Sunny Cliff Farm.

John Miller of Lomontville and Lester B. Davis of Olive Bridge are supervisors of the government soil conservation program were in Samsonville last week. Mr. Davis also has attended to similar matters among west side community farmers. Mrs. Bertha Thompson and family of Main street moved to Kingston for the winter on Wednesday.

Deyo Van Wagenen, general proprietor of Blue Gate Poultry Farm, had a newly driven Artesian well completed last week, which is an abundantly flowing one, similar to that nearby on the Bushkill school property.

Herbie Hyde did a nice job last week machine mowing the grounds of the Baptist Church property.

Farmer E. C. Davis was a Kingston caller on Monday.

Members of the Ulster County Grand Jury Association have received a letter from the secretary, Henry Hacholdt, that the annual banquet will be held again this year at the Hotel Stuyvesant on Thursday evening, November 12. A real turkey dinner is promised and members are invited to bring their wife, daughter, sister or any friend, at a nominal additional cost per plate. There will be dancing after the banquet. Judge Henry Winchell, of Sunny Cliff Farm, is one of the association's officers.

Mrs. Harold Constable is reported improving from her recent serious operation at Benedictine Hospital.

The many friends of Mrs. Chester Lyons of Ashokan are happily pleased that she is now improving nicely from her recent critical illness which she suffered closely following the death of her kindly father, Charles Davis.

Mrs. Maggie Connor and daughter, Martha, of New Jersey, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every at Traver Hollow. Mother and daughter, the latter who is now a high school teacher, made their home for a time some years ago with Mr. and Mrs. Every.

Members of the Kingston Riding Club, who started out gallantly upon their annual fall ride on Friday morning, spent the first night of their scheduled itinerary at the state camp in Woodland Valley, which proved to be the high water mark of their trip on account of the drenching rain which set in during the night and continued pouring down till early afternoon Saturday. Reluctantly the party drearily retraced their preceding day's steps and arrived back during the afternoon at the place of starting, High Point Springs farm. Included in the group of riders were Jules Breckinridge, Frank Ross, Fred A. Glidersteier and son, Allan, Sergeant John F. Ross, Miss Tillie Beaupre, Kenneth Post, Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. William Hart.

The members of the Baltz family, who have occupied Mrs. Minnie Smith's Main street bungalow property all season, returned to the city recently.

The week-end rain storm here was the heaviest in months. Streams are again running lively and waterfalls no doubt have already been created by wells and springs long dormant, now furnishing a welcome supply. Commissioner Claude Bell and other officials were amazed and shocked by the rise in the Bushkill stream, which had the storm not timely abated, would have no doubt seriously damaged the long stretch of undilled log cribbing built below the Bushkill bridge at a good distance.

Mrs. William Celano and children, with Miss Catherine Horr accompanying, are visiting her parents and friends, in New Jersey. The trip was made Sunday with Mr. Celano who returned next day.

Perhaps never previous has so little gun fire attended the opening days of the small game hunting season, as is reported heretofore. Squirrels both red and gray, which last year swarmed about the reservoir county in unprecedented numbers are almost entirely missing this season.

Assessor Martin J. Every was called to Samsonville Friday evening to investigate the reported killing of 80 chickens at the farm of Frank Davis.

An electrical contractor from Woodstock is busy with the wiring of Abram Constable's home on the High Point cross road. Mr. Constable is supplying needed poles for the hook up wire line wires supplying Watson Hollow Inn.

Herbert George, Denning's live wire supervisor, now in the running for state senator against Arthur Wicks, was unavoidably detained here late Friday evening while returning home from Margaretville, due to gasoline exhaustion. Mr. George was befriended by a late hour local motorist who assisted him to a refueling supply.

Pronhorn Not Antelope;
Mixture of Three Others

The pronghorn is not a true antelope; rather a cross between a deer, a goat and a giraffe, with a few characteristics of each. Zoologists say the Rocky Mountain goat is more nearly a true antelope.

The pronghorn is one of the swiftest animals on foot, declares a writer in the Washington Star. He clears prodigious lengths at a bound, but is a better broad jumper than a high jumper. It is said that a 4-foot fence will retain him.

On their native plains pronghorns rely upon fleetness and alertness to protect them from enemies. The warning signal for a pronghorn stampede is the flash of some wary leader's white tail.

The pronghorn shares this warning signal with the cotton-tail rabbit.

Curiosity has cost the lives of many a pronghorn. The timid beasts will pause in full flight to examine an unexplained object.

Hunters often lure them within range by waving a rag on a stick while lying concealed in the grass.

Omer and Ephah

The omer was one-tenth of an ephah and should not be confused with the homer, which was equivalent to 10 ephahs or about 80 gallons, says a writer in the Detroit News. The omer is estimated to have been from .42 to .46 of our peck, or about three and one-half quarts.

The ephah was a little over a bushel; the name is believed to be of Egyptian origin. The ephah, used as a dry measure, was identical with the bath, used as a liquid measure. The name "omer" is also used for the "omer." This word has also a religious significance. After the conquest of Canaan, the Israelites were commanded to bring to the priests at harvest time an omer of the first-fruits as a wave-offering or peace-offering, consisting of a lamb, flour with oil, and wine, and they could not eat the newly harvested grain until after the bringing in of the omer. This ceremony ceased when the temple of Solomon was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B. C. The days between Passover and Pentecost are still known as "omer" days.

Noblest Norman Castle

England's noblest Norman castle is how some people describe Hedingham castle, in northern Essex. Its keep is the best preserved Norman keep in England; although built in 1128 by Gundulf, who also built the keep of the Tower of London, the pure air of that countryside has kept the stone from weathering and the surface is as perfect as when the last workman left it. It stands 110 feet high, 62 feet by 55 feet and its walls vary from 10 to 13 feet in thickness. It has five floors and on the second is the ancient audience chamber with a Norman arch whose span is the greatest known of that period.

Mrs. Harold Constable is reported improving from her recent serious operation at Benedictine Hospital.

The many friends of Mrs. Chester Lyons of Ashokan are happily pleased that she is now improving nicely from her recent critical illness which she suffered closely following the death of her kindly father, Charles Davis.

Celtics Take Bristling Contest From Morgenweckers by 30-28

With a capacity crowd looking on, Frank Morgenweck's Colonials opened their basketball season at the Municipal Auditorium Wednesday night against Kate Smith's Celtics, who won, 30-28, despite a desperate rally on the part of the Kingstonians to pull the game out of the fire in the last five minutes of play.

The closing session was one of the most torrid ever witnessed at the auditorium, marked by rough play on both sides; but the five foul called on Kingston during that five minutes before the big gong ended the tilt cost the Morgenweckers the wampum.

Although the pugilistic atmosphere was created soon after the starting whistle in the first period, when Carlie Huston proceeded to chastise Dave "Fats" Banks with a belt in the teeth, it hit the ceiling in the last five minutes with the clubs roughing it up plenty.

The Celtics were out in front 23-20 when Kingston bore down. Three fouls in a row were called and Hickey, McDermott and Harlif converted them to put the Shamrocks out in the lead, 26-20. Time was called. After the rest, Hickey put in another free one for 27. Kingston fans yelled for baskets.

With three minutes left on Sam Jacobson's timepiece, Phil Rabin, star point-maker for the Morgenweckers, sank a foul. Banks got it back, and the tally stood at 21 for Kingston, Celtics 28. Then Rabin made a sinner and converted from the short stripe to boost Kingston's tally to 24. Bobby McDermott, rushing under the basket, slipped in his only chance of the night to make it 30 for Kate Smith's quintet. Rabin cut the cords at long range and slipped in a one-pointer after "Pip" Koehler had converted and the final whistle ended the tilt with the standing 30-28 in favor of the Greenies.

There was plenty of excitement in that final five minutes, as Kingston raised its eight points and the Celtics their seven. This thundering finish seemed to please the fans, who although their favorites missed out by two points, saw plenty of good basketball.

Next week the famous Renaissance team, colored champions of the world, will play Kingston at the auditorium in the regular Wednesday attraction, and another crowded house is expected to witness this cage fray.

After last night's melee, Morgenweck called a practice for this afternoon at 2 o'clock to talk over some of the weak points. He is anxious to trim the Rens next week, and then go after the Celtics again later in the season to even up the standing.

Phil Rabin, the famous Rabinowitz of the Passaic Reds last season, who has shortened his name, stood out as Kingston's main scorer last night, and a high point man for the game, by collecting 15 markers on five fouls.

Rabin scored five points in the first period, which ended in Kingston's favor, 11-9. He tossed in one deuce in the second stanza and built up the rest of his total in the last frame. Nat Hickey, Celtic guard, made 12 on three from the floor and six from the complimentary stripe.

Artie Coakley, manager of the Celtics, said of Rabin, "He's the best player in the American League, even better than McDermott I think and should be a great help to Kingston in the big loop."
